ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS TO BE FORMED IN FALL

A Faculty Senate committee study on the formation of departments within the College divisions has been accepted by the Academic Council and President Pfau.

The document, culmination of 18 months of work, defines as a department a discipline which offers a major in all four years. Disciplines which meet the criteria may become departments this fall. Others will continue under the divisional structure.

Procedures for selection of department chairmen are also established by the Faculty Senate document.

Approximately 16 disciplines will be eligible to qualify as departments in the Fall of 1970. Foreign languages have elected to combine in a Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures.

STATE COLLEGES TO ACCEPT UNDERGRAD APPLICATIONS FOR FALL '71 IN NOVEMBER

Applications from undergraduates planning to enter state colleges in Fall, 1971, will be accepted beginning November 1, 1970.

A similar announcement was made by the University of California, the first time in which a common applications date has been established by the two systems. The uniform date was agreed on to assist students in formulating their educational plans early and to give them a chance to consider alternate plans if campuses of their first choice are filled.
